The Dog Fight at Wheeling Does Not Take Place.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

To those people interested in the national game there is always something exceedinginteresting in a conversation with one of the baseball pioneers. "Old timers" invariably have lots of entertaining recollections to talk about, and they usually take great delight in telling of the "good old times." This certainly is the case with Mr. Charles S. Clampitt of this city. He is now 61 years old, and was playing baseball nearly 40 years ago. He was a member of the historic Olympic Ball Club of Philadelphia, and has in his possession a little book entaining a list of members of that club and a brief sketch of its early history. It was organized in 1833 to play townball, from which Mr. Clampitt states baseball developed.

The little history of the club goes on to say: The Olympic Ball Club was established by the union of two associations of townball players in the year 1838. One of these associations began playing at Camden, N. J., on Market street, near or upon the ground where the Eniscopal church stands, in the spring of 1831. On the first day there were but four of us and the came was called 'catball,' or what is called in some parts of New England, 'two

THE OLD-TIME TEAM.

"The players who were then over 25 years old, told some of their younger friends of the pleasure and advantage they found in resuming their boyish sport, and invited them to join and make up a number large enough for a game of townball. This was soon done and a party of from 15 to 20 regularly went over to Camden on Saturday afternoons in a horse ferry boat and played the game of townball." Public opinion was strong against such "childish amusement," and this feeling retarded the development of the game cons During a conversation last evening Mr. Clampitt said that this public sentiment against the game continued for a long time. He continued: "There were many prominent business men in the club, however, and they stuck together until the public feeling underwent a change. Games were played on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and began to attract considera-ble attention. New York people began to notice them, and, as a result, the New Yorkers improved on our game, organized the Knicker-bocker einh and played baseball. This was, I think, in 1846, and two or three years later we followed the example of the New York people. Townball was in many respects similar to base-forwhall was in many respects similar to base-ball; but in the former game if a pitcher hit the runner with the ball between the bases the runner was out. However, the Olympic, I think, was the first organized club, and doubt-less its existence prompted the formation of the first baseball club.

THE GAME BECAME POPULAR. There were soon many clubs formed and we all played baseball, and the game became more popular than the old game. We played for honor, the only trophy being a ball. In our were extremely different from the rules of today. I used to be a strong enthusiast in the day. I used to be a strong enthusiast in the olden time, but really the game is so different now in almost all respects that I don't feel at home when watching a game nowadays. I took part in a game has season and found that the methods are entirely different. I was a left fielder in my day, and at that time fielders had plenty of work, I assure you. Then the pitcher tried to put the ball where the batter could hit it, but now the extreme opposite is the case. Certainly in my young haseball days nobody ever thought that the game would ever develop to such extraordinary dimensions as it has ever thought that the game would ever develop to such extraordinary dimensions as it has done. Its advancement, in the eyes of those of, us who helped to inaugurate it, has really been wonderful, and goodness knows where it will stop. One thing connected with modern baseball I note with pride and that is its housety. I can remember when players would accept bribes and lose a game with comparative impunity. Now a player cannot do not without ruining his professional prospects forever. However, I still admire the good old methods which enabled us to make 20 or 30 runs. That kept the crowds shouting and everybody busy."

WANTS A SEPARATION.

Umpire Barnum Asks to be Kept Away From the Players.

e Washington correspondence of In the washington correspondence of the New York Sun is the following: Umpire Barnum, in a lengthy communication to President Young, reiterates his views regarding the separation of umpires from playing as much as possible, and his suggestions are worthy of consideration. One point that he brings out strongly is to the effect that after a game, and expectable one that has been close and exciting strongly is to the effect that after a game, and expecially one that has been close and exciting, the umpire should not be compelled to come in contact with the players in the clubhouse. Very frequently remarks are made that have a tendency to create ill feeling between players who think they have been discriminated against by the umpire, and this could be obviated by the umpire keeping away from the men. He renews his suggestion that the umpire should be furnished with a conveyance of his own to and from the grounds, and should not be compelled to ride in the coach alloted to one of the teams. His idea is to do away with fraternization between umpires and players, as it will have a tendency to make the former the impartial judge of the contest that it is intended an umpire shall be.

DISAPPOINTED SPORTS. The Wheeling Dog Fight Did Not Take

Pince-Lively Scenes. The big crowd of Pittsburg sports who went to Wheeling on Saturday to witness the dog dog owned by J. Pembleton, of the Southside, were sadly disappointed. The battle did not take place, and, as a result, there was a lively time among the patrons of the pit. The Pittsburgers went to Wheeling expecting to witness a chicken main, a dog fight and a prize fight. Only the first named took place.

The chicken main turned out to be much

Only the first named took place.

The chicken main turned out to be much smaller than anticipated, as there were only six battles between Wheeling and Phillipsburg birds. Four of the battles were won by the Phillipsburg party, and each contest was for $25 a side. The main took place in a rink at Fulton, near Wheeling.

It was intended to have the dog fight in the rink when the main finished, but the crowd, made up of Wheeling, Steubenville, East Liverpool and Pittsburg sports, was so rough and demonstrative that the owner of the building refused its use and demanded everybody to leave. A number of free fights ensued and one man received a severe cut in the head with a bottle. The dog fighters then proceeded to a barn a mile and a half away from Wheeling. The promoters of the fight began to charge $2$ per head admission to see the battle. After about 50 persons had been admitted at this rate the Wheeling sports broke into the barn in wholesale fashion. It was then deemed unsafe to have the fight take place, and the owners and their dogs disappeared with a howling mob after them.

They returned to Wheeling when a stable was offered them to fight in private. Kirly, the owner of Napoleon Jack declined the offer, though Pembleton was willing to accept it. After considerable wrangling Pembleton and his dog left for home on the 5 o'clock train. Kirly took his dog to Martin's Ferry, whereihe spent yesterday. It is likely that the battle will take place this week. The prize fight was lost sight of owing to the trouble concerning the dog fight.

A WORTHY MOVEMENT.

Efforts Being Made to Organize a Real Amateur Boat Club. Efforts are being made to organize a bona fide amateur boat club in this vicinity. Mr. J. J. Sweeny, who is connected with the Duquesn ball club, stated yesterday that several gentlemen interested in aquatics have commenced movement to accomplish the object named. The great object is to have an amateur club that can, without question, put forth the best local amateur rowers in the national contests. Several patrons of the scull are eager to have John Martin and McChesney take part in the national amateur regatta, and to do this effec-tively an amateur boat club of influence is tively an amateur boat club of influence is needed.

At present it is hard to find a local boat club that can technically be called amateurs. The want of such an organization has been extremely felt for some time. If an organization of the kind named were established such promising scullers as John Martin would probably get a chance to measure sculls with the champions of other clubs in the country. It is also probable that other good scullers would be developed here, as there are lots of powerful young men in the neighborhood who desire to become bons fide amateur scullers.

The idea as expressed by Mr. Sweeney is to have all those interested in such an organization meet and form a club independent of and entirely distinct from any other club in the city. The proposed club could be formed on purely amateur principles. A step of this kind would certainly do much toward redeeming the prestige of acquatics here. At present that excellent branch of sport is under a ban, but it is possible to return it to public favor by the method mentioned above.

PRESIDENT YOUNG'S VIEWS.

He Explains Matters About the Players Spalding's Team.

WASHINGTON, March 17 .- "None of the players who have been making the tour of the rld under the supervision of Mr. Spalding have been assigned to classes," said President Young, of the League, "and they will be exempt from classification for 15 days after their return to the United States. This rule applies to John Ward as well as his companions, and the reason for it lies in the fact that it was adopted after the tourists left this country en route to Australia. I have been authorized by Mr. Day to release Ward to the Washington management upon his signing a contract and the payment to me of the sum promised by Mr.

The contests became exciting because of the intense rivalry there existed between Philadelphia and New York. The Athletics were organized in the former city and the Athletics were organized in the former city and the Athletics were not be tween the two clubs when the fences were all broken down. The Athletics won, and it was, indeed, a great time.

"In the early bistory of these clubs nobody was paid for his services, but the clubs gradually drifted into professionalism, and I'll tell how that took place. It was soon distance the greatstrength of a team rested accomplished by written communications in as many days. Naturally, everything is in abeyance pending a decision by Ward of this matter, but the indications point very strongly to his doming a Washington uniform for the baseball season of 1888."

General Boulanger Outlines His Plans and Declares That He is

Measures Taken to Avert the Threatened Financial Crisis.

HONORING THE BASEBALL PLAYERS

PARIS, March 17 .- General Boulanger went to-day to Tours. The train which conveyed him stopped at Blois and St. Pierre des Corps, at both of which towns enthusiastic demonstrations were made in his honor. At Tours a crowd of 3,000 persons gathered at his hotel to welcome him. In response to vociferous cheering the General appeared upon a balcony and expressed his thanks for the reception accorded him. In the evening a banquet was given, at which Senator Naquet and several members of the Chamber of Deputies were present. In a speech M. Naquet pointed out the fa-cility with which the adhesion of the Conservatives to a moderate republic might be obtained. He referred to General Boulanger's intention to restore religious peace to the country by stopping the policy of persecution. Boulanger would appeal to the country, and if the nation voted to maintain the concordat the question should be allowed to rest for 40 years.

BOULANGER TALKS. General Boulanger followed with a specch of the usual kind. He said: "The Conservatives who follow me understand that the restoration of the monarchy is impossible without a violent upheaval, and they adhere to the Republic on condition that it be made habitable and be sanctioned by the people directly consulted."

In concluding he repudiated, on behalf of the national party, the idea of either a monarchical conspiracy or demagoguery, declaring that the goal toward which they were marching was a republic, but a nonparliamentary republic, which would be the protectress of the weak and lowly, and be passionately preoccupied with the interests of the people, respecting the liberty of the individual and, above all the liberty of con-

FAITH AND THE ENEMY.

Rev. Father Murphy Preaches to Parader at the Cathedral. Rev. John T. Murphy, President of the Holy Ghost College, of this city, delivered the sermon at St. Paul's Cathedral last evening. ticularly to the members of the Catholic organ-izations who paraded in honor of St. Patrick ticularly to the members of the Catholic organizations who paraded in honor of St. Patrick yesterday. In the first part of his discourse he reviewed Irish history, and spoke of good deeds done by Ireland's patron saint. He said that St. Patrick's Day puts before the minds of Irishmen the fact that faith was the instrument he bestowed on their fathers as the most precious of giffe, 1,400 years ago. It is faith that gave a luminary to their lives, and a true value to their works. It raises them up above the littleness and misery of their life and files them in God. It reveals to them the greatness of their destiny. Tells them that they have been created, not for this world but for the next, not for themselves, but for God. Without faith a man's life, be he ever so talented, ever so great, ever so poweful, is wasted. Without faith a man is a victim to the vice and corruption and consequent delay of fallen human nature.

The enemy of their faith he claimed came to them with glores on his hands, rings on his fingers, wearing pure linen and broadeloth, with a smile on his lips. He does not openly attack the faith, but gives it a passing nod of respect. He finds his way into the sanctuary of the home. His work becomes easy when he find the coast clear. He east his way through their whole family system, until he has reduced it to one rotten mass of corruption.

"Hand down your faith to your children intact and unsullied. Whatever else you do for them, instill the faith with all its teachings and practices into their every fiber. Teach them to love it, to stand up for it, and to fight for it, if need be; yea, to die torit. May God and St. Patrick bless you and yours in this your grave mission to preserve and propagate our holy olden faith"

A good many of the reverend gentleman's hearers construed some of his remarks about "the enemy" to mean the American Mechanics' order.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILIPSBURG, March 17 .- The Shaw bill, now before the Legislature, which proposes to make it compulsory on the part of coal operators to adopt for use in their mines a recently contrived apparatus intended to detect explosive gases in mines, has aroused intense indignation among the coal operators and mine laborers throughout the entire Clearfield bituminous coal region. Petitions remonstrating against the assage of the bill are being extensively circulated and freely signed, and local meetings at many of the collieries are held nightly to de vise means of defeating the measure.

At a largely attended meeting held yesterday by the operators and miners a formal peti-tion was adopted to be presented to the Legislature by a committee of operators and mine

ANEW BRIDGE COMPANY.

Youngstown Gentlemen Will Embark Extensively in the Business. Youngstown, March 17 .- Capitalists in this city have practically concluded arrangements for the building of an extensive bridge works in the suburbs of Haselton, on or near the site occupied by the Morse Bridge Works, which were destroyed by fire. The organization will be known as the Youngstown Bridge Company, with a capital stock of $100,000, all of which has been subscribed. with a capital stock of $100,000, all of which has been subscribed.

Application has been made for a charter, the incorporators being B. F. Boyd, Hamilton Harris, Robert Hunter, L. E. Cochran and John Neilson. The company expects to be in operation in three months and employ 100 men.

AN UNFORTUNATE ENGAGEMENT. Why a Buckeye Young Lady Will Not Get the Postoffice. WOOSTER, March 17.-J. W. Hostetter, the present incumbent, was the lucky candidate at present incument, was the fucky candidate at the election for Postmaster at Orrville. The contest was spirited, as there were ten candi-dates, one of them being a young lady whose chances were crippled by a report circulated by the opposition that she was engaged to a Dem-ocrat, and was to be married soon, and that the office would then be under his control.

LIMA, March 17.—John L. Yonker, the clerk of the Hotel Marsh, met with a serious accident. He was on the third floor of the building assisting in getting some baggage to the ele assisting in getting some baggage to the ele-vator when he reached for the ropes which control the elevator, but missed them and lost his balance, falling through the elevator way to the basement below, a distance of 60 feet. Both of his legs were broken and he was other-wise injured. It is feared his spine is fractured, which will cause his death.

Fatally Injured by a Tramp. LIMA, O., March 17 .- John McCarty, a freight brakeman on the Dayton and Michigan Railroad, put several tramps off the train near Anna station last night. Afterward he discovered one on the caboose with a club in his hand. McCarty grappled with him, but he was a powerful fellow, and in the tussle he threw McCarty from the top of the train to the ground. He was brought here for treatment, but the doctors say he is fatally injured.

An Independent Oil Refinery, LIMA, March 17 .- The firm of Spear, Mehaffey A Hoover Bros., the largest oil producing firm in the field outside of the Ohio Oil Company, will begin the exection of a refinery immediately. They have 30 acres of land a few miles south of the city which will be utilized. The capacity will be 2,000 barrels per day.

A Large Woolen Mill Burned. New Bremen, O., March 17.—The large woolen mill of Backhaus & Kinsell was de-stroyed by fire last night. Loss estimated at $30,000; insurance $20,000. Fifty men are thrown out of employment.

A VICIOUS ATTACK

Alleged Against a Man for Hitting a Boy

Playing at Marbles.

John Haplein will have a hearing before

Alderman Flach to-day on a charge of assault and battery, preferred against him by

Mrs. Mary Ann Berry.

The woman claims that while her son, a boy 10 years of age, was playing marbles yes-terday, he got into a quarrel with Haplein's son, when the father came and kicked and abused the child in a terrible manner. He had a cut on his forehead, a piece off his ear, his

MRS. DR. CROSSLEY,

Catarrh and Dyspensia Institute

at 22 Ninth street.

Mr. James Critchlow, residing on Carnegie street, this city, has for 15 years undergone terrible suffering from his stomach. At times it would give him such pain that he could only live on lime water and milk. He had great distress and bloating after eating, with belching of gas. His liver also gave him much pain, and his tongue had a yellow coating. He had a pressure and pain over the eyes. He lost all ambition and kept getting worse until he was unable to do any work. One doctor said he had cancer of the stomach. After trying Il doctors all to no purpose, he began treatment with the physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute, and although 67 years old, he now works every day and feels well and hearty. He says: "That I am cured of the above conditions I hereby sign my name.

The above lady physician can be consulted by ladies suffering from diseases peculiar to their sex. The medicines used are positively curative, and are so prepared as to allow the patient to use the treatment herself. They treat successfully catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, bronchitis, asthma, blood, kidney and female diseases.

Office hours, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 6 to 5 P. M. Sundays, 12 to 4 P. M. Consultation free to all. Treatment also by correspondence.

HOW TO SAVE LIFE What is a cough? It is an irritation of the throat and lungs. What causes it? Congestion. Stop the congestion, the irritation ceases and the cough is cured. But how to stop the congestion! Ah, there is just where physicians congestion? Ah, there is just where physicians have always been puzzled. But it must be checked, or pneumonia, quick consumption or some terrible pulmonary disease will follow. Some doctors give cod liver oil, others cough syrups, but the most advanced prescribe stimulants. Nature must be assisted. Pure whiskey will do it. See what physicians say: Prof. Austin Flint, of Bellevue (New York) College, says: "The judicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century." Professor Henry A. Mott, of New York, says: "The purity of Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey (as simple analytical tests will readily convince a physician or an expert) should certainly recommend it to the highest public favor."

Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey is a certain cure and preventive of congestion and should be
